

Device for sealing a leveler door opening of a coke oven chamber during top charging of the coking coal provided with a housing connectable to the leveler door opening to form a seal. A leveler bar (2) comprising at least side segments (3) and cross segments (4) connecting the latter is guided through the housing. The housing (1) is provided with means for sealing the cross sectional area of the opened leveler door or in front of the opened leveler door. A regulable or controllable exhaust fan (8) is connected to the housing (1) and a measuring location (10) is provided for flow measurement.